

With Pop-Up Shops and Pop-Up Gallery's all the rage these days Jamaica Street Artists have combined both to give you the return of The Art Box this Christmas. The Art Box builds on the success of last year's venture this December at The Showroom, Park Street in conjunction with Capacity Project via Bristol City Council.

Jamaica Street Artists will be taking over and transforming this empty unit on one of Bristol's favourite independent shopping strips into a truly unique shopper's paradise selling everything from cards, limited edition prints to original paintings and much more.

Jamaica Street Artists is an independent artist lead organisation whose reputation has been steadily building over the last few years. Known for the quality and diverse range of work its Artists produce you can be assured that you will find that perfect something for yourself or as a gift for someone.

Jan Blake's delicate hand painted silk scarves will be on sale along with individually designed cups by Rose Vickers and internationally renowned Illustrator Bjorn Lie's original screen printed tee-shirts.

The mysterious Mr Mead makes an appearance too with his strange ink and paint work and Hannah McVicar's detailed floral screen prints will be available as will prints by photorealist painter Philip Munoz.

As for our painters, Abigail McDougall's vibrant watercolours of Bristol life and landscape painter Jemma Grundon's tranquil yet moody landscapes will be adorning the walls too.

Artists from JSA will be running the exhibition-shop themselves, so a number of them will be on-hand, every day, to answer questions or accept commissions.

So in the lead up to Christmas this year it really is worth braving the crowds and making the time for a unique shopping experience for a refreshing material and cultural mix that will change each time you pop in.
